William Sheppard, Esquire
Office of the Statewide Prosecutor
PL-01, The Capitol
Tallahassee, Florida 32399-1050

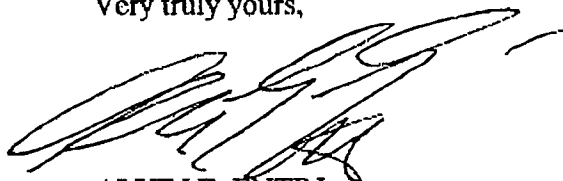

Dear Mr. Sheppard:

In several articles published concerning the on-going Scott Rothstein matters in Broward County, political consultant, Roger Stone, alleged that an improper arrangement had been struck with State Chief Financial Officer Alex Sink. Stone charged that Sink agreed to give Scott Rothstein oversight in the selection of future gubernatorial appointments, including those to State Judiciary, as a "quid pro quo" for contributions provided and raised for her current campaign for Governor.

As an attorney, I find these allegations, if true, quite troubling. Public corruption is pervasive in Broward County as evidenced by a string of recent indictments. Governor Crist recently petitioned for an order to impanel a Statewide Grand Jury to investigate these and other acts of malfeasance and misfeasance by public officials. Certainly the allegations made by Mr. Stone as to the arrangement between Rothstein and Sink should be included in the scope of this inquiry.

It is my sincere hope that these allegations are not true, but as a practicing attorney, I believe it is incumbent upon you to investigate these serious allegations against a sitting Cabinet member.

Very truly yours,

ALVIN E. ENTIN
